'F.D.R. Signs' Act To Speed Output Of War Supplies

Mandatory Priorities May Be Assigned to Order of Foreign Power Under Bill Will Get Ore
Also Signs Bill to Keep Iron Ore Feeding to Steel Plants

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 2 (P)—President Roosevelt obtained today power to speed the production of arms for Great Britain and the United States by imposing on American industry mandatory priorities of wartime scope.

Mr. Roosevelt has signed a bill, the temporary White House announced, under which mandatory priorities may be assigned to an order or contract of any foreign government brought within the terms of the lease-lend act, and in some cases, to orders of any government department or of private industry.

Heretofore, only contracts placed by the army and navy could be given mandatory priorities by the Office of Production Management—the agency to which Mr. Roosevelt has delegated his authority over priorities.

Signs Ore Bill

Again to bolster the armament program, the Chief Executive has signed a bill to keep iron ore feeding into steel plants. It would permit Canadian vessels to carry ore between American ports on the Great Lakes during the 1941 transportation season.

The bill suspends for a year a law reserving coastwise trade to American ships. There are not enough American bottoms to carry all the ore to meet demands surpassing all previous records.

Except for army and navy orders, the O.P.M. has utilized a system of voluntary preference certificates. A manufacturer could refuse to honor them or run the risk of a damage suit from a private customer if he did honor them.

The bill just become law allowed the extension of mandatory priorities to contracts made by England, or any other foreign country brought under the lease-lend act.

U. S. May Get Priority

Orders of government agencies other than the army and navy and of private industry, when they are of vital importance to defense, also may be assigned mandatory priorities.

In addition, the legislation makes it clear that such priorities may be applied to sub-contracts and sub-orders.

Protection against liability for damages is provided for persons complying with priority assignments.

The O.P.M. retained the right to handle priorities only after the Senate turned down an amendment, inserted by the House, which would have placed the responsibility on an army-navy board.

A third bill signed by the President appropriates $43,294,199 for the post office department in the year beginning July 1.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, June 2 (P)—The position of the Treasury May 29: Receipts $11,906,158.14. Expenditures $36,842,838.62. Net balance included $1,172,365,219.60. Excess receipts for month $3,109,901.08. Receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $6,306,633,532.98. Expenditures $11,172,365,219.60. Excess of expenditures $4,865,731,686.62. Gross debt $47,696,551,891.57. Increase over previous day $14,328,627.22. Gold assets $22,573,786,919.10.

Street Job Started

Reconstruction of O'Neil street was started this morning as a local W.P.A. project. It is expected that the street for its entire length will be rebuilt. The work of rebuilding Pearl street is also being carried on by the employees of the Board of Public Works, who last week completed the rebuilding of Smith avenue.

Pastor Is Improved

The Rev. Frank B. Seeley, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, who has been quite ill at his home on Maiden Lane since last Monday night, was reported as somewhat improved.

Killed Pheasants

Vicious dogs roaming the streets without muzzles on Saturday killed three golden pheasants on the Boulevard, according to a report made to the police by a resident of that street.

Ran Through Gates

Shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday morning a hit and run driver ran through the gates of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad, damaging one of the gates, according to a report filed with the police department.

New Strike Threat Now Faces U. S.

Freight, Warehousemen May Go Out at San Francisco; Pittsburgh Has Walkout

Break Appears

Lumber Production May Be Resumed in Pacific Northwest

(By The Associated Press)
A strike of freight handlers and warehousemen threatened the San Francisco Bay area today. Pittsburgh was hit by a walkout of truck drivers and helpers, and the first promise of a break appeared in the disputes which have crippled lumber production in the Pacific Northwest.

In San Francisco some 4,000 C. I. O. warehousemen waited for an 8 a. m. (P. S. T.) deadline to halt work in an effort to enforce demands for a 10 cents an hour wage increase for women workers who now receive 50 and 55 cents. Neither the union nor the Association of San Francisco Distributors were optimistic about the chances of a last minute settlement. Union and association officials previously had agreed on other wage increase issues, but deadlocked on the 10 cents women's raise. The association offered 5 cents more an hour, but the union rejected this as "discriminatory" and "a union splitting" tactic.

The Pittsburgh strike brought out 2,000 truck drivers and helpers working for 179 concerns, officials of the A. F. L. Teamsters' Union said. Truck shipments of a wide variety of defense materials were at once restricted. Union and management officials said that the curtailed shipments would affect not only great armament production area around Pittsburgh but also the flow of materials to eastern states.

Negotiations Collapse

The strike began yesterday, following the collapse of negotiations for a new contract between the union and members of the Motor Truck Association. The union asked a basic 10 cents an hour increase over the existing 85 cent rate, paid vacations and maintenance of a 48 hour week. Employers said the wage demand exceeded "our ability to pay" and proposed a 34 hour week.

Some C. I. O. lumber workers at Seattle, who boom men offered to go back to work if employers would give them 1 1/2 cents more per hour, making the daily minimum $8.15, and make it retroactive to April 1.

They made this contingent upon the submission to arbitrators of their demands for a one week annual vacation with pay, adjustment of overtime pay and a settlement of the call-time issue. Although the boom men's union has only 87 members, the strike tied up mills employing 4,000.

The defense mediation board called a conference tomorrow at Washington in an effort to iron out the lumber dispute between the Woodworkers of America and employers of the C. I. O. union's 12,000 members. The union struck for a 7 1/2 cents per hour wage increase to 75 cents, a week's annual vacation with pay, a union shop and hiring provisions and guarantees against piecework rates.

Officials of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company and the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council agreed to resume negotiations over contract differences which were a main issue in a C. I. O. A. F. L. machinists strike against 11 shipyards and repair shops in the San Francisco Bay area.

The machinists have demanded that Bethlehem accept a union shop clause. They also want all (Continued on Page 10)

Hitler and Mussolini Confer on Plans For Countering Any Belligerent Move By the United States, Declare Fascists

Jersey City Fights Waterfront Fire

This is an air view of the fire which swept through an eight-story grain elevator in Jersey City's Erie railroad yards, burned south into the Jersey City stockyards and threatened to sweep through a private flour plant and the entire Erie terminal on the Hudson river waterfront. The great billows of smoke could be seen in New York city. All Jersey City apparatus was called to the scene in a general alarm. Coast guard and New York city sent boats to battle the blaze.

Bishop Manning Official at Two Special Services

Thirty-five Candidates Are Confirmed at St. John's, Holy Cross Churches; Dedication Held

The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, Bishop of the Diocese of New York, paid an unusual visit to Kingston on Sunday and conducted special services in St. John's Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross.

Bishop Manning's first visit was made to St. John's church where he baptized Paul Maurice William Venno, infant son of the rector and Mrs. Venno, dedicated the hand carved altar and reredos given by the Misses Frances and Laura Dwight in memory of Harriet L. Carter and also dedicated the rectory at St. John's in addition to confirming a class of candidates presented by the rector.

Bishop Manning had not made a visit to Kingston in 15 years. Other confirmation classes have been confirmed by the suffragan bishops of the diocese.

In the afternoon Bishop Manning confirmed a class of candidates at the Church of the Holy Cross, baptized Joyce Lynn Proctor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stuart Proctor and re-dedicated the rebuilt parish house which was destroyed by fire in December.

Bishop Manning, assisted by the Rev. C. D. Weedon of the Convent of St. Anne, the Rev. St. Clair Vannix of New Paltz and the rector (Continued on Page 12)

Authorities Scout Idea Of Sabotage in Big Fire

Damage Is Estimated at $25,000,000 in Non-Defense Section of Port

Jersey City, N. J., June 2 (P)—Blackened rubble and heat-twisted steelwork held the secret today of the cause of a 24-hour fire that ravaged eight blocks along the Jersey City waterfront, but the police, Coast Guard and Federal Bureau of Investigation expressed belief that it definitely was not sabotage.

Fire Chief Frank Ertle, who estimated the damage at $25,000,000 told newsmen to "put any sabotage ideas out of your mind," adding that the fire could have started from a carelessly-tossed cigarette.

J. Edgar Hoover, F.B.I. chief, who also discounted the sabotage possibility, said in Omaha, Neb., that there were no national defense materials destroyed.

The fire broke out Saturday afternoon in a stock yard and was not extinguished until after the flames had mushroomed spectacularly through the waterfront area between Sixth street and Pavonia avenue.

Several hundred head of cattle perished, and the fire destroyed an eight-story grain elevator and engine house, a two-story cattle pen and hay loft of the Jersey City Stock Yards Company, a large milk platform, nine barges, 16 freight cars and two automobiles.

In addition, the fire caused extensive damage to a 400-by-200 foot warehouse operated by the Midtown Hudson Company, six ferry slips of the Erie railroad and a covered railroad spur.

It was the second large dockyard fire within a week in the New York port area. Freight cars and equipment owned by the Pennsylvania railroad valued at $100,000 burned Tuesday, at a Jersey City pier, causing undetermined merchandise loss.

Ferocious Attack Upon Crete Was Done to Chill Britain

U. S. May Control Gas, Oil Prices

All Sections of Country Might Be Affected

Washington, June 2 (P)—Government action to control the prices of gasoline and fuel oil in all sections of the country is being considered by defense officials, it was learned today.

Because of the varied price structure in the oil business it is unlikely that price ceilings such as have been imposed on some commodities will be invoked instead, it was learned, companies might be requested to submit their cost records to justify any increases.

Leading oil companies operating in the mid-Atlantic and New England areas already have agreed to a request of Leon Henderson, price administrator, that they not raise prices without first consulting him.

Americans Reach Lisbon

Lisbon, Portugal, June 2 (P)—One hundred and nineteen Americans who were aboard the Egyptian liner Zamzam when she was intercepted in the south Atlantic reached Lisbon today. They came here by train via Spain from Biarritz, German-occupied France, where 21 others of the Zamzam passengers were held by the Germans.

Sanford Deplores Fact Unmuzzled Dogs Roam Streets

Cites Rabies Quarantine Imposed on February 6; Asks Adults Set Good Example

Many dog owners of Kingston are failing to observe the rabies quarantine in Kingston and are allowing their dogs to run unmuzzled on the streets, it was stated today by Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, who issued the following statement on the rabies situation in Kingston.

"On February 6, 1941, it was certified by the state commissioner of health that rabies exists among dogs in the city of Kingston. From that date it has been compulsory to enforce section 25A, article 3, of the public health law, which requires that all dogs at large in the city be muzzled or restrained by a leash.

"Most Kingston residents have complied with his requirement and this is appreciated to the fullest by those who are responsible for the law enforcement. However, there are others who are entirely disregarding the dog quarantine and are failing to cooperate with the health authorities in this matter and with those who are making every effort to lessen the possibility of the occurrence of rabies in the city of Kingston.

"Lately a number of unmuzzled dogs have been seen on the streets, especially in the evening and on Sundays and holidays. I ask the owners of these dogs that are playing the game fairly and squarely? Certainly if you have no respect for law or order what can you expect from the younger generation.

"So far this year there have been two cases of rabies among dogs in the city, one occurring on February 3 and the other on February 8. Up to June 1, rabies has occurred in eleven towns surrounding Kingston, and all are in quarantine except the town of Esopus. Therefore there is still danger of infected dogs straying into the city.

"It is quite apparent that the disease in dogs is not entirely under control but is spreading in extent and increasing in prevalence.

"During the first three months of the year 29 persons in Ulster county have received antirabic treatment. Perhaps there are others who should have been so treated.

"If not other cases of rabies occur among dogs in this city between now and August 8, the quarantine will then be lifted, but from now until then it must be enforced.

"If drastic measures have to be instituted it will be due to the minority of citizens who are failing to cooperate with those whose duty it is to see that public health requirements concerning rabies are complied with."

Survivors Attempting to Escape to Africa in Fishing Boats Are Attacked

City Is Raided

Manchester Is Given Worst Assault in Some Months

(By the Associated Press)
Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini conferred for five hours with their military chiefs today at Brenner Pass, scene of past momentous decisions, and informed Fascists said the Axis leaders presumably talked plans for countering any belligerent move by the United States.

The Nazi Fuehrer and Il Duce, it was said, were probably concerned with prospect of action by the United States in connection with President Roosevelt's program to defend the western hemisphere with the Navy—involving French West Africa, the Azores and other Atlantic islands.

At the same time the British acknowledged that the Mediterranean had become virtually an "Axis sea."

This situation and how to capitalize on it undoubtedly figured in the Hitler-Mussolini talks.

Qualified informants in London said the past week's developments—notably the fall of Crete and the alignment of France with the Axis—had practically eliminated the Mediterranean as a link between Britain and the middle east.

Fury Turned on Survivors
Germany's luftwaffe, knockout victor in the 12-day battle of Crete, turned its fury today on the last British and Greek survivors attempting to escape to North Africa in fishing boats; while on the western front, other Nazi warplanes violently assaulted the big English manufacturing city of Manchester.

The British officially conceded defeat yesterday in the struggle for Crete.

Today the London Daily Telegraph bluntly demanded an explanation for Britain's fourth straight setback at the hands of the German war machine—in Norway, Flanders, Greece and Crete.

"Many times in this war has such a story been retold," the newspaper said.

"Why has it been repeated in Crete? We have been on the island since November. What was done in those seven months which failed to prevent another evacuation after a 12-day campaign?"

Anticipating such queries, the London war office declared that British warships and troops "could not be expected to operate indefinitely in and near Crete without more air support than could be provided from our air bases in Africa."

The Germans said Nazi mountain troops had defeated the remaining British force on the 160-mile-long island yesterday, taking 3,000 more prisoners. Hitler's high command had previously reported the capture of 10,000 British and Greek soldiers. Altogether, 30,000 imperial troops were said to have been on Crete when Nazi "chutists" opened the invasion.

British officials said 15,000 troops had been taken off safely and had arrived in Egypt, ready for action in the developing battle for the Suez Canal.

Manchester Is Raided

In the attack on Manchester, Nazi raiders poured down thousands of fire bombs and high explosives—the worst assault there in months. Rescue crews, still digging for victims buried under the wreckage this morning, were handicapped by a dense pall of smoke.

An undisclosed number of nurses were feared entombed in the rubble of a nurses' home blasted by a direct high-explosive hit; two hospitals were hit, and four shelters were smashed in a working-class district.

In the middle east, the British claimed victory in the month-old hostilities with Iraq's regime of Premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani, whose flight from the rich "garden of Eden" oil kingdom brought a week-end armistice.

The British said the pipe-line flow from Iraq's Mosul oil fields to the British base at Haifa, Palestine, was still cut off, and it was indicated that German forces remained in the country.

The whereabouts of 6-year-old Kink Feisal II remained uncertain. First reports said he was carried off to neighboring Iran (Persia) by the fleeing Rashid Ali; later it was said he was safe in Baghdad.

With the fall of Crete, the British predicted that Reichsfuehrer Hitler would attempt next to invade Britain's island stronghold of Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean.

Mrs. Howard Found Dead in Her Bed

Cause of Death Will Be Determined Later

Mrs. Phenia E. Rodney Howard, widow of Stephen Howard, was found dead in her bed in her home on Miller's Lane, shortly after 8 o'clock Sunday morning by her granddaughter. She was approximately 60 years old. Coroner Frank J. McCordle of Rosendale, who was called, ordered an autopsy performed and expects to give a verdict as to the cause of death later.

Mrs. Howard was reportedly in good health when she retired about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night, but when she failed to arise at her usual hour on Sunday morning her granddaughter went to the bedroom.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Harley Pelen; two brothers, Courtland Rodney and Philip Lazo; five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, 27 Smith avenue, on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and thence to St. Joseph's Church where a high mass of requiem will be offered at 9:30 o'clock. Burial will be in the Woodstock cemetery.

Mrs. Howard was the daughter of the late Henry and Marion Rodney, of Scranton, Pa. She had been a resident of this city for many years.

To Defend Bridge

West Point, N. Y., June 2 (AP)—Three day "defense" of Bear Mountain Bridge, second longest span across the Hudson river against a simulated air attack was opened today by 80 members of the United States Military Academy's graduating class and a detail of enlisted men from the 62nd Coast Artillery of Fort Totten. High flying air raiders and dive bombers represented by planes from the West Point air corps station attempted to blast the bridge while being shelled by three inch anti-aircraft and 37mm. guns and 50 calibre machine guns from land.

Financial and Commercial

Stock Exchange Business Drops During Holiday

With many traders taking advantage of the long holiday week-end business on the Stock Exchange Saturday made a nine-months record for dullness and narrowness, with sales down to the low level of 107,000 shares. The short session closed a week of listless and lack-of-trend trading, with what little change there was in the Dow-Jones averages being downward. Thus the average of 30 industrial stocks dropped .88 point for the week, to close at 115.76; the rail average was off .31, to 27.43, and the utilities losing .09, to close at 16.90.

It is remembered that about the only significant thing about the market of late has been the lack of volume, with daily transactions running at 300,000 and 400,000 shares, or even less. The volume did not reach 400,000 shares on any day last week and there were but three days in the entire month of May when it went to 500,000 shares, which latter is far from being a big day. Continuing demands of labor, particularly as affecting the important defense industries, increasing government price control tendencies and priorities on materials, with the discouraging trend of the war, all combine to counsel caution of the part of investors and to a large degree offset items of news that in ordinary times would send stock values upward.

Thus steel operations are running at capacity these days. Pittsburgh is scheduled to start today at 100.5 per cent of theoretical in-plant capacity and Chicago opens at over 100 per cent. Last report on department store sales showed them to be 21 per cent above the same period last year. Value of residential building construction in April showed the largest gain in 12 years. Freight car loadings of soft coal last week were at the highest level of the year. Dividends declared in May, by 1,156 corporations, totaled $521,381,631, largest for May since 1937.

Roosevelt Seeks Sum to Construct 'Defense' Roads

Washington, June 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt recommended to Congress today additional appropriations of $125,000,000 for special defense highway construction. In message to Congress, the President proposed that $100,000,000 be authorized specifically for assisting in the development of access roads and $25,000,000 to strengthen bridges and widen services in key areas.

The message said that federal works administrator soon would submit a draft of a bill authorizing the appropriations "and it is hoped that this matter may have early consideration." The President's recommendations were based upon a survey by the federal works administrator of highway facilities from the viewpoint of national defense. This survey related particularly to the adequacy of ingress to and egress from urban centers, the servicing of existing and proposed army, naval and air bases and the possible necessity for the strengthening of bridges and the widening of roads in strategic areas.

'Quiz Kids' of Kingston High Win Championship

The Kingston High School "Quiz Kids" are the champions of "The Little Red School House" program broadcast over station WGY, Schenectady, by virtue of its win over Troy on Sunday. This was the 12th consecutive win for the local representatives. The program ended the current series which is planned to start again in the fall. The local team is made up of Catherine Nagy, Leonard Rabin and Paul Beshtegorian. The contest yesterday was one of the closest of the series. Troy before being eliminated earlier in the season had scored six consecutive victories before meeting defeat at the hands of Kingston's representatives.

The Kingston High School students making up the local group were sponsored by the Kingston Coal Company.

GRANGE NEWS

Ulster

The regular meeting of Ulster Grange was held May 21 at 8 p. m. The Grange opening song, "America," Mr. Story obligated Charlotte Havlin and Charles Harnden in first and second degrees. At the next meeting Highland Grange will be the guest of Ulster Grange.

The literary program was in charge of Sister LeFevre. Dr. Clark gave a talk on animals, which was interesting. Sister Zur Nieden took over the program and gave a series of animal songs: Old McDonald Had a Farm; Three Blind Mice; The Old Gray Mare; Donkey Serenade. After the songs all played a game. The next meeting will be held June 4 at 8 p. m.

Stone Ridge Grange

The first meeting for June will be held this evening at 8:30 o'clock. At this meeting the third and fourth degrees will be conferred on a class of 12 candidates. The lecture's program will be brief in order that plenty of time may be had for the conferring of these degrees. A good attendance is requested.

On Thursday evening, June 5, the service and hospitality committee of the Grange will serve a spaghetti and meat ball dinner, starting to begin at 6 o'clock. This dinner will be prepared by experts in the cooking of this food and a fine dinner is assured. The public is invited.

Barn Damaged by Fire

Fire of unknown origin caused nearly $7,000 damage to a large dairy barn containing several tons of hay Saturday morning on the Patrick J. O'Neill farm at Bruynswick. The fire was discovered by a passing motorist. Firemen from Walkkill and Pine Bush battled the fire and managed to save a small bungalow near the barn and to protect two large dwellings. The motorist awakened the caretaker and sounded the alarm for the firemen. Mr. O'Neill, a cattle and hay dealer, recently sold his stock from the farm and was reported to be in New Jersey.

Ferocious Attack On Crete Planned To Strike Terror

felt, so long as Alexandria stands as a base.

Loosens His Grip

More significant and even more obvious is the fact that Hitler, in order to employ his full fury on Crete, loosened the tentative grip he had on the Near East itself, by deserting his puppet in Iraq after giving him ineffective air support.

Thus if we look hard we can see the picture of the Nazis retreating for the first time from a country which they have occupied, at least politically and aeronautically, while in the same moment they send chills down the world's back by the nightmare conquest of a mid-Mediterranean island somewhat more extensive than Long Island.

The British loss of men on Crete was proportionately heavy; perhaps from one-third to one-half of the total British-Crete force must be considered dead, wounded, or captured. The loss in warships was even more severe, especially since it coincided with the destruction of H.M.S. Hood in the Atlantic.

But the German loss of men was certainly as heavy as that of the defenders, and the loss of German planes considerable. Yet in proportion to the stupendous total of men involved in this whole war the man-power loss is not a matter of great military consequence; it serves mainly to emphasize that the big battles are yet to be fought. And no one who read the list of warships which Britain summoned to catch and kill the Bismarck can believe that the royal navy is a goner.

Answer to Crete

The answer to Crete, then, is that this was not a strictly military campaign at all. It was cannily designed to strike a blow into the hearts of the British on their own island, so close to Nazi shores; to cow and terrify the Turks, so deftly encircled, and—perhaps this should be stated first—to amaze and awe the western world and make hesitant the hand that helps the British.

Not a bit of this is lost on the Turks, who already have the Nazi Panzers on their land frontier and, knowing full well that Hitler never takes unnecessary risks, are not fooled into thinking that he will gracefully by-pass their firm land bridge to Asia minor if he can cudgel them into letting him walk across it.

On the other hand the Turks can see that Britain stands again in control of the head of the road to Baghdad, Turkey's remaining land route to the non-totalitarian world. On her part, Britain is certain to do everything possible to keep that hold.

Home Service

More Workers Than Ever
In U. S. Civil Service

Defense Adds To New Openings
"Calling all workers!" Uncle Sam has a message for nearly every type of worker, from professional to untrained. With the defense program, the number and variety of jobs in U. S. Civil Service are greater than ever.

For people with inspection experience, or laboratory or college training, there are jobs inspecting aircraft, clothing, powder and so on. Pay goes to $2600 and up, depending on experience.

There is also a big demand in defense work of craftsmen of all kinds, from artist lithographers to shipfitters. Shipfitters get to about $8.93 a day; drillers to $7.30, lithographers to $2600 a year.

At the same time, Uncle Sam's peace-time work goes right on. Student fingerprint classifiers (1440 a year) need no special training, but must be high-school graduates, 18 to 25 years old. Junior messengers, 18 to 25,

Brooklyn Model Engineers Visit Kingston Clubhouse

The fourth annual safari of the Brooklyn Railroad Club to the clubhouse of the Kingston Model Railroad Club was held Saturday, May 31, afternoon and evening.

Since the organization of the local club four years ago based on the ideas of the Brooklyn club, members of the metropolitan group have made an annual visit to Kingston. Saturday the Brooklyn group brought along three quarter-inch scale locomotives and several cars, and the afternoon and evening was spent in operating the Hudson Valley Lines, scale model system of the Kingston club.

Several of the group also engaged in taking motion pictures of activity at the club and in and around the yards of the West Shore railroad.

Those present Saturday were: Oliver N. Carey, Samuel Saxton, R. Edward Day, George Schmidt, and Leon Maciejewski of Brooklyn; the Rev. W. K. Haysom, Henry P. Eighmey, Charles Diehl, Julius Lipton, Burton Spray, Addison A. Schultz, Edward E. Safford, Ralston Munson, Arnold F. Tierney, George Koerner, Walter Phillips, Arthur Evans, William Marnett of the Kingston club; S. J. Keating, trainmaster of the West Shore Railroad, and J. A. Simpson, freight agent of the West Shore Railroad.

Experiment Shows Right-Eyed Folk Best Readers

To be right-eyed makes reading easier. Furthermore, this advantage is so marked that being left-eyed largely accounts for many persons, particularly children, being defective readers.

Right-eyed, or vice versa means that one or the other eye is used mainly in the work of seeing.

The discoveries about the effect of eyedness on reading were made by Dr. H. R. Crosland, associate professor of psychology, University of Oregon. A mirror device showed what was happening.

In the mirror there was flashed a short line of printed matter. Each flash lasted one-eighth of a second, just long enough to be seen clearly. The lines, however, were not full length. Each contained some letters grouped in one of three positions, either at the left end where printing starts, in the middle, or near the end of the line.

The mirror could be used so that only one eye at a time could see these flashed lines.

When this was done the right-eyed persons saw the left, or starting-line side, most clearly. The left-eyed saw the right, or end-of-the-line position better.

In reading, these eye habits would mean that right-eyed persons could a little more easily and quickly read the start of each line.

He concludes that a left-eyed person has difficulty in fixing the eye on the left or initial side of the printed line. His eye movements, seem to skip back from time to time in the opposite direction of the flow of printed words.

Important to Mr. and Mrs. America is the F. D. R. decision on Thanksgiving Day. No longer will the U. S. tremble on the verge of a civil war over the date on which the nation's turkeys give their all for the sake of tradition and the honor of being garded with cranberry sauce. The President says there shall be only one Thanksgiving Day this year—the old one—the last Thursday in November. This will take furrows out of the brows of football teams, business men, traditionalists—and that flighty bird, the turkey, who is always losing his head about Thanksgiving Day.

Male Kiwi Sits Happily On Eggs; 'Wife' Watches

If you become really friendly with an aviator he will begin talking learnedly about the kiwi. But if you pin them down most will admit they have never seen one. All they know is that a kiwi is something that should fly but can't. Pilots use the word as a final insult in an argument with aviation executives who have neglected to learn how to leave terra firma.

The kiwi is a bird found only in New Zealand. It is the size of a hen, lays eggs that weigh a quarter as much as the hen's, is covered with coarse hair instead of feathers, and has bony stubs instead of wings. The female is a third larger than the male but the latter sits happily on the eggs and cares for the young while his "wife" stands guard. The female, on a small scale, can kick like an ostrich. Whenever she wishes she can tear her mate to pieces with her toenails. "The birds' eyesight is so poor that they must get about by using their long beaks as tapping canes. There should be a law against calling a man a "kiwi."

Your Soil First

A good gardening soil is both friable and fertile.

When friable, writes Helen Van Pelt Wilson in the March issue of House Beautiful magazine, it has water holding capacity, is well aerated and easily penetrated by plant roots.

It is rich in active bacteria, due to its humus content.

When soil is fertile, it has plenty of those elements which are essential to the healthy, balanced growth of plants.

Too many amateurs, according to Miss Wilson, start gardening with seed packets.

That's like trying to decorate a house before the cellar is dug.

In gardens, as in houses, good foundations count. Dig deeply, at least two feet for the perennial borders, place a six-inch layer of stones and debris in the bottom for drainage purposes, and then take great pains to improve the soil which chance has given you.

The first year, if most of the gardening money goes into the hiring of a digger and the purchasing of unromantic but reliable soil conditioning materials it is all to the good.

Plastic Gains in Favor

Plastic materials are being used to a greater extent than ever before by the motor industry in its 1941 models.

A survey of the new cars reveals the fact that a glass-like transparent plastic is now being used for instrument panel lenses in certain makes and models.

Other types of plastics are being employed to embellish the handsomely finished one-piece steel window moldings of the new turret-top bodies by Fisher and to decorate the knobs of the window regulator handles and cranks controlling the operation of the no-draft ventilation system, as well as for dome and courtesy light lenses.

Other uses to which plastics are being put by automobile manufacturers include steering wheels, fog-lamp shells, stop lights, direction signals and radiator ornaments.

Railroads in the United States handled an average of 850 tons of freight per train in 1940, the greatest total on record.

Socks As Rug Material

Charming for a homey living room nook or for a bedroom—a colorful octagon rug you can make from old silk stockings at the cost of a little dye!

It's easy, too. You cut two-inch bias strips from the stockings, sew them end to end and crochet them together with single crochet. In no time you have finished a rug 30 inches in diameter.

You can use the stockings in their original colors or you can remove the dye with color remover and re-dye in blending colors—violet, purple, bright blue and ivory, or any combination you prefer.

Sew all your violet strips together and crochet a center 7½ inches in diameter, starting with a chain of three joined in a ring. Follow with three rows of ivory, five rows of bright blue and 12 rows of purple. Add eight stitches in each row.

Ocean Water Unhealthy

In answer to an inquiry as to why human beings cannot exist on salt water used to quench their thirst, Hygeia, The Health Magazine, explains: "The body fluids contain about 1 per cent salt. Sea water contains about three times as much salt of various kinds. When a fluid with a high salt content is taken into the mouth, it extracts water from the tissues and the blood stream. The dryness in the linings of the mouth and throat and the sensation of thirst are therefore increased."

The four largest U. S. copper mines each annually produce 80 million pounds of copper, and together account for nearly one-half of the total copper mined in the U. S., according to the Census Bureau.

The uncertainty of life is a world-wide affair — one thing the rich and poor can share. One never knows what may happen tomorrow. It may bring great joy or untold sorrow. To have ambition and peace of mind, are two things that money can't buy, you'll find. The thing that makes life really worth living, is not in receiving, but in giving.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

No Help Needed
Boston—A voice appealed over the telephone to police lieutenant Daniel P. Barry to "send a cop right up to my house."
"Why?" asked Barry.
"Because," came the reply, "mother is giving George a spanking."
By that time mother had wrested the phone to explain that George was being tanned all right, but that the lad talking was only 3½ years old.

Animal Haven
Kansas City—Mrs. Leonard Painter's kindness to dumb animals has become a growing problem.
She had one dog, but adopted another that strayed to her home with a hungry expression.

Three tiny robins fell from their nest—they were nursed to full size and now refuse to leave.
An alley cat wandered in and had a fine litter of kittens.
Mrs. Painter has hung out the no vacancy sign.

Ace in Hand
Seattle—Golfier A. R. Sayres' 145-yard hole-in-one came the hard way.

Is He Dreaming?—Neigh-h-h!
St. Paul—District Judge Clayton Parker carried a complaint about night mares to the police, and that isn't as silly as it sounds.
He has been awakened from sound slumber in the wee hours recently by stray horses using his lawn as a pasture. Deep hoof marks imbedded in the yard give tangible proof that the judge wasn't dreaming.

Mechanized First Aid
Chicago—Nicholas Callabrese, 19, a workman, fell on the roof of a foundry fracturing his pelvis.
Fearful that carrying him down a ladder would add to his injuries, firemen employed the foundry's traveling crane with a 60 foot beam to lower him gently to an ambulance.

Sir Hugh Walpole, British Novelist, Is Dead in London

Book-a-Year Author Had Roots in Literary Post of Great Britain; of Distinguished Line

From King's School, Canterbury, to this, the childhood school in England, claiming foundation by St. Augustine in A. D. 598, he later gave his personal and collected manuscripts and books, together with a goodly sum for endowment, to found a literary museum.

From King's School, Canterbury, he went to Emmanuel College, Cambridge, where he was a scholar. Following his graduation, he preached for a short time at a Liverpool waterfront mission for seamen. His father wished him to continue in the church but he soon gave it up, becoming successively a private tutor and a schoolmaster.

Laborer in Basement Room
The urge to write, inherited from Sir Horace Walpole, whose "Castle of Otranto," published in 1740, started the romantic revival in English literature, quickly became the dominant factor. He quit his schoolmastering job and, with only $150 in his pocket and the half-finished manuscript of his first novel, migrated to London.

Taking a basement room, which cost the equivalent of $1 a week, he started to break into the world of letters. Work as a part-time book reviewer developed into a whole-time position at $750 a year. Soon his first book, "The Wooden Horse," appeared. Five others followed before the World War.

When that conflict started Walpole was vacationing in Russia. He joined the imperial Russian Red Cross, saw two years of service and won the Georgian medal. Then, foreseeing the collapse of the czarist regime, he escaped from the country just before revolution gripped it.

Despite his Red Cross duties, he found time to write "The Golden Scarecrow" in 1915 and "The Dark Forest," based on his war experiences, and "Joseph Conrad" in 1916.

His post-war works enjoyed a popularity that never waned. They included the "Jeremy" books—"Jeremy," "Jeremy and Hamlet" and "Jeremy at Cradle"—generally believed to have been based on Walpole's experiences as a schoolboy.

His historical studies at Cambridge were reflected in the "Herries" saga and several novels were written about life in a cathedral city, an insight gained from his father's tenure at Edinburgh.

One of the notable works in this last classification was "The Cathedral," which was published in 1922 and dramatized ten years later. Other books which were made over for the stage were "The Young Huntress," "Portrait of a Man With Red Hair" and "The Old Ladies." The plays met with varying success, but Walpole had a liking for things theatrical and in 1934 and 1936 was summoned to Hollywood as a consultant on films with English themes.

He also did considerable lecturing in the United States, making half a dozen tours in the decade following the World War. Walpole created some kind of a record by the number of prefaces which he wrote for other authors' books. The last was for "The Mystery," for he himself said he had no idea how many he had turned out.

He once claimed for himself "thousands of enthusiasms, ceaseless conversations, ignorance of facts and love of long walks." He spent many years at his home near Keswick, in the heart of the Cumberland moorland, a broad-shouldered, compactly built man, with dome-like forehead, receding gray hair and clear, humorous gray eyes.

He strode over the Cumberland slopes on jaunts which ran from 12 to 15 miles, regardless of the weather.

Room Donated to The Benedictine

Second Blue Room to Be Donated to Local Hospital

On Memorial Day, Friday, May 30, Michael Howard, his family and relatives, had the pleasure of seeing and admiring the beautiful blue room donated by Mr. Howard to the Benedictine Hospital, in memory of his deceased wife, Annie Carey Howard.

This is the second blue room donated to the Benedictine. The first was given by John Halloran, nephew of Michael Howard, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Halloran. The rooms adjoin each other and are on the second floor of the hospital. The first periwinkle blue room was admired to such an extent that Mr. Howard decided to have his room finished as an exact replica of the first.

Mr. Howard is highly commended by the hospital authorities for giving such a splendid public memorial to perpetuate the remembrance of his late wife. It is the earnest hope of Mr. Howard that those in need of hospitalization may find their recovery accelerated by the life-giving qualities of radiant color which the room emanates.

The walls, ceiling and woodwork are old rose and the furniture is periwinkle blue following the latest in hospital equipment. Adorning the walls are two plaques, one the world famous "Madonna of the Chair" and the other Botticelli's "Madonna della Melagrana." These plaques resemble bas-reliefs in linear decision and definite color. The frames are made with a two and one-half inch modeled outside border of old ivory stiple and antique gold. The inner borders of one-half inch surrounding the picture proper, are made with alternating motifs of Renaissance red and blue. Both subjects were treated in the same way to match as a pair.

At the foot of the bed is an antiqued crucifix made by the Benedictine monks in Germany just previous to their expulsion a few years ago.

Draperies and lamps with touches of old rose and blue complete the ensemble. Even the bed linen, blankets, etc. are a beautiful shade of dusty rose.

Agnes V. Birmingham, of the Birmingham Studios, was the decorator. This is the fifth room done by Miss Birmingham, one being in the Kingston Hospital.

family returned to Britain and Hugh was sent to King's School, Canterbury. To this, the childhood school in England, claiming foundation by St. Augustine in A. D. 598, he later gave his personal and collected manuscripts and books, together with a goodly sum for endowment, to found a literary museum.

From King's School, Canterbury, he went to Emmanuel College, Cambridge, where he was a scholar. Following his graduation, he preached for a short time at a Liverpool waterfront mission for seamen. His father wished him to continue in the church but he soon gave it up, becoming successively a private tutor and a schoolmaster.

Results—It is the rule of nature that certain causes produce certain effects. This also holds good regarding human conduct. Happiness in reality is not a reward, it is a consequence. By the same token, unhappiness is not a punishment, it is a result.

She—Doesn't the bride look stunning?

He—Yes, and doesn't the bridegroom look stunned?

How to kill attendance at a dinner meeting: Announce in advance that so and so will "read a paper."

Oliver—You'd better keep your eyes open when you're in New York.

Andy—Why?

Oliver—You'd look awful silly if you went around with them closed.

Have you any doubt what would happen if the average business man spent as much time thinking about how to improve his own business as he does thinking and worrying and talking about the wars in Europe and Asia?

Mrs. Dowagers—And do you like to play golf very well, Mr. Whifflebotham?

Whifflebotham—Oh, yes, quite. But somehow I never seem able to play it that way.

An Ode to Spring

Mud! Mud! Mud!!!

Stucky, mucky, mud!

There's a splash from every puddle,

Every quaking, greasy puddle

Standing in the middle

Of the deep and yellow muddle

Called a road!

Every barn and shed—I've seen

em—

Every path and road between 'em

Swims in seas of viscous liquid

Known as mud!

The solid earth's gone liquid,

In sticky, yellow semi-liquid,

Into taffy-colored tar and gumbo

Known "affectionately,"

As mud!

Laura—Nancy, do you say your prayers every night?

Nancy—Yes, I do.

Laura—Do you say them in the morning too?

Nancy—No, I'm not scared in the daytime.

"And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave,

O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

A country man, on entering a drug store and seeing a pay station, placed a nickel in the slot and lifted the receiver.

The operator, of course, inquired, "Number, please?"

The Country Man: "Number, hell, I want my peanuts."

In keeping with the current rage, there's the miniature cocktail. One drink and in a miniature out.

Charlie—I'm going to marry a beautiful girl and a good cook.

Horace—You can't. That's bigamy.

It is better to have a few good friends than a good many friends.

Father was standing at the edge of a cliff admiring the sea below, the sandwiches clutched in his hand. His son approached him and tugged at his coat.

"Mother says it isn't safe here," said the boy, "and you're either to come away or else give me the sandwiches."

THE SACRED DAGGER

By Rita Mohler Hanson

YESTERDAY: Anne Willard, and the two men who are trying to get through the Emir's country with her, have apparently escaped that treacherous ruler—by the stratagem of marriage. But it looks as if the Emir may have doublecrossed his American prisoners after all, for Anne, Blaze Sherwood and Pete Mackey now are being driven rapidly into desolate country.

Chapter 13

Castle In The Desert

BLAZE walked behind for perhaps half a mile, then re-entered the carriage.

"The camel's real enough," said Sherwood. "I see his tracks mingled with our own animals' as well as older tracks as if camels heavy with young or loaded down with packs had passed here yesterday going the same direction. But we meet no one and there are no returning tracks. It is possible that there are wild camels about, which would explain the sign."

"What's that about the old Thieves' Road around the end of the river?" Anne asked.

"Our captain mentioned it but there's no indication this stretch we're on has ever been a highway. We seem to be headed for the center of the Depression."

"So what?"

"I don't know," he admitted. "Mackey and my revolvers were taken away from us and they haven't been returned, although the balance of our luggage is strapped to the back of the carriage."

"Do you suspect treachery?" Anne asked. "If the lama could predict that you would find me why couldn't he predict the end of this journey?"

Sherwood took her hand in both of his and held it on his knee. "Doddad," he reminded her, "is not a thinker, and he likes to be mysterious at times."

She nodded. "Tears and talk of paradise."

He removed a scarab ring from his finger and tried fitting it on her hand.

She became conscious of how black and thick were the lashes that shaded his gray eyes. The blaze in his hair stood out like the banner of a special individuality. An unbidden thought entered her mind that here was a man who should father extremely handsome daughters. She felt a bit abashed.

The passed out of the dunes and entered a region of low brown clay ridges. He smiled and patted her hand and returned it to her, having discovered the ring was much too large. His indirect love-making had a way of creeping up on her in surprise attack. She caught herself looking back to Mackey for moral support. He waved and she responded.

Sherwood smiled again as if aware of her reaction and began telling her some of his experience in far corners of the world.

The sun sank towards the Bekkan Bula mountains that had begun to loom on the far horizon before she roused from the spell of his words. It had been like a journey back into childhood, to the dear, familiar times when her parents came home from some extended expedition and related their experiences. They always promised, "When you grow up and finish college you may come with us." She told Sherwood about it.

"I can see that child," he said, gently scrutinizing her face. "Big eyes—waiting, with longing, little chin aquiver because she was going to be left alone again."

"Silly of me," she admitted. "I lived only for the time when I should grow up."

"That explains Dr. O!" he stopped, suddenly as if realizing he was about to speak private thoughts aloud. "Where are they taking us?"

"That's what I'd like to know. When do we reach Chuka?" she demanded and poked the footman impatiently.

The man whirled, eyes glowing, teeth bared, fists clenched in self defense. Then he grinned apologetically when he saw it was Anne who had attacked him. "Chuka," she repeated. "Chuka, Chuka."

He offered her the water skin. "He thinks you're choking," teased Sherwood, and they were back on the old familiar footing again.

Night Stop

ONE of the soldiers came up with three fresh camels they had been leading. These were harnessed to the carriage and continued the journey at a swift pace hour after hour until these animals in turn were drooping wearily. If Sherwood was disturbed he did not show it, but laughed and talked with Anne in his usual bantering way.

Once, she noticed a twinkle in his eyes and became aware that his fingers rested on her pulse. She drew her hand away with a swift movement.

"Have you ever tried to find the pulse of a native inhabitant of this country?" he asked smilingly. "Why should I?"

He went on. "The skin is so thick that the pulse is almost undetectable. I've heard of a local tyrant who had leather gloves made of the skin of a particular enemy."

"Nice people," remarked Anne. As the sun sank their tired camels drew them to the top of a final clay ridge and stopped as if they, also, wished to take in the view before going the last weary half mile.

Below them lay an oblong basin shaped like the bowl of a white dish with a brown clay rim that had been molded and baked by a giant potter and then broken at one end from the upthrust of a granite cliff beside which a creeping sand dune was beginning to invade the basin. The remarkable thing, however, was a little blue lake lying in the bottom of the bowl.

"Water," cried Anne. "In a bed of salt," supplemented Sherwood grimly.

Beside the upthrust cliff stood a large pavilion tent flying the colors of Yangsar. At one side burned a fire before which servants were huddled. Several camels were tethered near by.

"Castle in the desert," muttered Sherwood.

"How beautiful," Anne exclaimed, "and how strange—as if it were the landscape of another planet!"

Sherwood regarded it with a more somber gaze.

The afterglow was dimming rapidly as they descended into the basin. Lanterns had been hung in the tent when they arrived. Anne and Sherwood walked down to the water's edge immediately, crunching salt under their feet.

"It's almost thick," she said, feeling the fluid. Then the twilight faded and the moon became visible high in the sky. He spied water springing from the rock wall of the cliff and falling into a well of mud. "Look," he pointed. They went over to the little stream that flowed the few feet into the lake. Sherwood tasted it.

"Cool and fresh," he said. Anne drank eagerly from his cupped hands.

"Heavenly after that stuff in the goat skin bag," she murmured. When they returned to the tent they lay on the piled rugs in the tent trying to find a yet softer place.

"Of all the new twists that camels invent!" he moaned. "She could give shuffling pointers to a ducky hoodlum."

Sherwood scrutinized the bales and boxes lining the walls of the tent. "The bride's dowry," he said.

The Swim

"HEN this," murmured Mackey significantly, "must be the castle in the desert."

Sherwood looked at him. "Have you any idea what the old devil's up to?"

Mackey shook his head. "The game's beyond me. At least we eat," as a servant brought in a low table.

"Let's take a swim first," suggested Anne restlessly.

He gave her a reproachful glance. "Girl, you're asking me to go through all the motions of standing up and walking to the water?"

"A plunge will do you good," Sherwood advised. "It appears that we're here to stay for a while."

The two men looked at each other. "Eat, drink and be merry, eh?"

"For all I know," agreed Sherwood.

Do they really think that tomorrow we die? Anne wondered, her pulses suddenly beginning to race. There was something electric in the air. Mackey got to his feet.

"Where's my warbag? You got a pair of swimming trunks for yourself?"

"I have," said Sherwood, "unless one of the Emir's servants like the looks of them."

"What color?"

"Black."

"You've got them. Now if they've been fuchsia—or green and magenta striped—"

Anne opened her suitcases that had been placed inside the tent. "Where can one find privacy?" she asked.

Mackey looked around. "There sure isn't much cover in this crater. You might try the shadow of a camel."

Sherwood had begun letting down the tent front. "Come on, Pete. Anne can change here while we take the whole outdoors."

Then he thought of something and returned. "Let me open your bag." When it lay open he asked, "Black color?"

"Black, I can—"

"Let me," he lifted the folded clothing carefully.

Mackey came and watched. "What's this?" asked Anne suddenly. "A customs inspection?"

Mackey grinned. "Our good friend, the Emir, has been known to smuggle deadly little desert vipers into the possession of people he does not like."

Anne shivered and stepped back.

"There are none here," Sherwood declared, handing her the bathing suit and closing the bag. "Is it safe," she queried, "to leave the dagger here while I swim?"

"I think so. Remember it is as inviolate as your person to these people." The men went through their own luggage and then stepped outside.

When Anne was ready she strapped her bathing cap under her chin, wrapped a long coat around her, called and stepped out.

Both men pointed simultaneously to her fiery tunic.

With bulging eyes the servants and soldiers watched the three, as they waded into the lake hand in hand; and made no effort to restrain them.

"One thing," murmured Sherwood, "we can't sink."

"Drowning might be a good way to die," said Anne. "I'd prefer it to torture."

Helen M. Schroeder Col. McEntee Wed

Miss Helen Marie Schroeder, daughter of Mrs. Henry Schroeder of Barclay Heights, Saugerties, and the late Mr. Schroeder, and Col. Gerard Lindsey McEntee, of "Parade Rest," Saugerties, were married Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at St. Mary's rectory, Saugerties, by the Rev. Edmund T. Hart.

Miss Rita V. Powers of Port Chester attended the bride as maid of honor, Henry J. Schroeder, Jr., brother of the bride, acted as best man. The bride wore a white street length dress and picture hat. Miss Powers wore a powder blue street length dress and a picture hat.

A small informal reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after which Col. McEntee and his bride left on a wedding trip to California. They will reside at "Parade Rest" upon their return.

Col. McEntee is a retired U. S. Army officer, author and lecturer. He is a graduate of George Washington University and the Army War College and attended Boston University, Columbia University and New York University.

Miss Schroeder is a graduate of the Rochester School of Dental Hygiene, Cornell University.

Neer-Prehn

Miss Margaret Prehn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Prehn of Rifton and Charles E. Neer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Neer also of Rifton, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William J. MacDonald, St. Peter's church, Rosendale. Miss Virginia Coutant of Creek Locks, Miss Audrey Kidd of Rifton, Walter Prehn and Charles Neer, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Neer also of Rifton, were the attendants. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will reside on Garden street, this city.

Engaged to Wed

New Paltz, June 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Emmett H. Terhune of Poughkeepsie announce the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Ruth Terhune, a graduate of New Paltz Normal School, to Victor William Ean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Ean of New Paltz. While at the Normal school, Miss Terhune was active in the Outing Club, Country Life Club, chorus and girls' athletics, and is a member of the Clonian sorority. She is now a member of the faculty of the Arlington Grade School. Mr. Ean is a graduate of the New Paltz schools where he was active in sports. He is employed in Poughkeepsie. The wedding will take place this summer.

Former Resident Visitor

Charles H. Lane of New Rochelle, a former Kingston resident, and now a practicing attorney in New York city, paid his annual Memorial Day visit to this city. He was accompanied by his son, Warren, a student in Columbia University. Mr. Lane renewed old acquaintances in this city and then motored to Hurley where he visited Miss Elizabeth DeWitt, who was his teacher in old school 11, now school No. 7 on Crown street. Mr. Lane is a graduate of old Kingston Academy, a member of the class of 1903. He is very active in education circles in New Rochelle and is vice president of the board of education there.

Miscellaneous Shower

The 4-H girls club of Rock School, Rifton, recently gave a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Margaret Prehn of Rifton, whose marriage to Charles Neer took place Sunday at St. Peter's church, Rosendale.

An enjoyable evening was spent and many gifts were received by the honored guest. Among those attending the shower held at the home of Miss Devine were: Amy Anderson, Amy Van Keuren, Catherine Balfe, Audrey Friedman, Ella Lakdempera, Catherine Bode, Sylvia Salmi, Mrs. Warren Neer, Mrs. Warren Neer, Jr., Mrs. B. Neer, Mrs. Paul Balfe, Mrs. H. Pekarsky, Mrs. G. Clements, Mrs. M. Rimm, Mrs. H. Eckert, Mrs. G. Mericle, Mrs. H. Reuner, Audrey Kidd, Virginia Coutant, Ethel Eckert, Mrs. Devine, Mrs. N. ## A WONDER WOMAN IN SCIENCE

Wanda Farr, Who Solved the Cellulose Riddle, Says Women Scientists Have Good Poker Faces

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of five stories on accomplishments of women in science.

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer

Stamford, Conn.—One hot August day in 1939 a slender, dark-eyed woman bent over a microscope in a Yonkers chemical laboratory, tense with interest.

Wanda Farr knew she had the answer to one of chemistry's greatest riddles—the origin of cellulose. It was a discovery big enough to set the science world on its ear. But that night she simply said to her six-foot son: "Well I've found where cellulose comes from."

Science had probed the mystery for years. Cellulose helps form the walls of plant cells and thus the structural framework of plants—which in turn manufacture food for themselves, animals and men. Science uses cellulose as the key product in a billion dollar industry which makes hundreds of things ranging from rayon to plastic brushes.

But, though man has harnessed cellulose for new uses, he can't reproduce the thing itself. He never had been able to learn where it came from till Mrs. Farr made her discovery.

It's Big On A Small Scale

To appreciate what a hard job that was, you'll have to use your imagination and do a magnifying job millions of times greater than the highest powered laboratory lens.

Think of the little plant cell as a big room, filled with a jelly-like substance called protoplasm. Imagine semi-transparent balls filled with the same protoplasm, floating in the room. Now see these balls burst and release, from the protoplasm within, thousands of tiny crystals which slide over to the walls and stick there to form those walls (made of cellulose, remember). The cellulose, then,

Wanda Farr... "In science you come from the protoplasm manufactured within those floating balls in the cell."

Now that you know it, it sounds relatively simple. It took Mrs. Farr ten years to learn it. In 1933 she discovered with a high powered lens the crystals floating in the protoplasm. They seemed to burst into being before her eyes. But she couldn't see where they came from.

All In The Focus

Then she hit upon the scheme of switching her microscope from cotton fiber, which she had been examining, to a Bermuda sea plant whose cells are relatively large.

She saw the balls bursting and releasing the crystals. Excitedly she switched her microscope back to the cotton fiber and discovered the same process—and thus the origin of cellulose. The balls hadn't been apparent to her in cotton fiber because they looked

Letter of Introduction Carries Social Obligations It Must Be Used With Greatest of Care

A letter of introduction carries a very real obligation. So real, in fact, that only illness can excuse the person to whom the letter is addressed from making an effort to show special attention, in one way or another, to the person so introduced. The favor is too great, therefore, to ask of anyone less than an intimate friend without having an exceptionally good reason. This explanation brings me to the situation described in one of today's letters:

"Some weeks ago I had the privilege of looking after Mrs. X, an elderly relative of my employer, for several hours between trains. He was busy at a meeting and could not see her. I found this lady charming and she seemed to like me. Also, during our conversation she told me that she was very fond of young people and that she missed seeing many as she used to do, since the younger members of her family had scattered—her grandsons in camps, her only granddaughter married and moved away."

"When I took leave of her on her train, she told me I must be sure to come to see her if I should ever come to her city. So now I am wondering about a young and very dear friend—a bride—who has gone to live where Mrs. X lives. My young friends are both strangers there, and I feel sure they and Mrs. X would like each other—I really believe this on both sides. Therefore, I am wondering if I might send the bride a letter of introduction. Or do you think it would be presuming for me to do this?"

In answer to this, I must say that strictly according to rule, it would not do at all. But since the test of social knowledge is not half so much a question of strictly obeying the rules as of knowing when and how they made on occasion be broken, this, it seems to me, may be one of those occasions. Therefore, taking the chance that Mrs. X and your newlyweds will like each other as much as you think they will, my advice is that you write to Mrs. X telling her about the bride and her husband who have gone to live in Mrs. X's city where they are strangers. And that as Mrs. X had told you how much she liked young people, and as you really think the newlyweds are more than likeable, you wonder if Mrs. X would be willing to let you write them to go to see her.

Gene Tierney Is Wed

Hollywood, June 2 (AP)—Gene Tierney, New York society girl turned actress, brought a husband and a title back to Hollywood today—Count Oleg Cassini, Washington, D. C., dress designer. Nine-year-old Gene and Cassini, nine years her senior, were married yesterday at Las Vegas, Nev. It is the first marriage for the daughter of broker and Mrs. Howard S. Tierney. Cassini was divorced last year from "madcap" Merry Fahney, patent medicine heiress. Her fourth mate, they were married twice within two weeks late in 1938. A Chicago court later decided her third divorce was illegal, leaving her with two husbands, but the Illinois Supreme Court subsequently reversed the decision. The marital bonds were cut in New York May 14, 1940.

Mexico shipped nearly 40,000,000 pounds of coffee to the United States in the six months ending March 31.

Panelled Afternoon Dress

Marian Martin

Pattern 9736

9736

There's no age limit to the charm of this cool, dainty summer dress, Pattern 9736 by Marian Martin. It's line-perfect, appealingly feminine and very easy to wear. Isn't it attractive in the eyelet batiste fabric shown—or try a soft print, crisp sheer, or a cotton lace? The neckline is cut in a low, curved square for coolness, and deep, well-shaped yokes smooth the shoulders and hold gathers below. Slim-as-a-pillar lines are given by the full-length front panel and the back skirt panel. You'll like the hip-seaming that slants in from either side to make a long-waisted effect. Both the yokes and the sleeve tabs may be in fresh lace-edged contrast.

Pattern 9736 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Maroons Win Second DUSO Meet With Total of 63 Points

Four Records Are Broken as Locals Win Seven Firsts

Ferguson and Fallon Make New Marks for Kingston at Stadium; Middies and N.F.A. Trail

For the second year in a row the combined forces of G. Warren Kias and Loyne Connick have dominated the track sport as far as the DUSO League field is represented. Kingston swept to another undefeated season Saturday afternoon at the municipal stadium by collecting 63 markers to win its second consecutive crown.

The Maroon and white representatives not only swept the field, but also had a hand in breaking two records. Bill Ferguson, who had a disappointing afternoon last week against Poughkeepsie, pole-vaulted his nimble frame 11 feet five inches to break one record. Kingston's relay squad of Collins, Short, Crosswell and Nussbaum, came through in a record-breaking time of 46.6. Port Jervis and Monticello broke the other two records.

Middletown's squad and Newburgh's Goldbacks, the expected tough opposition for Kingston, followed in second and third but their places were far behind. The Middies scored 23½ while Newburgh collected 22. Monticello, Port Jervis and Ellenville trailed in that order.

It was a big day for the Maroon and White team as the club opened with an impressive showing in the javelin toss and from then on dominated the play to suit its taste. Kingston wasted very little time in going out in front and once getting the lead, managed to keep far in the distance.

Fallon Takes Two

Jack Fallon, well-known for his efforts on the gridiron, proved that he was a man to watch in a track uniform, too. He clocked 23.4 in the 220 yard dash and then repeated in his favorite event the broad jump. Fallon leaped 21 feet and ¾ inches in the broad. Buddy Gildersleeve followed Fallon in second place in the 220.

Two of Middletown's best, Paul Stephens and Schild took the spotlight in the 100 and 440 yard dashes. Stephens replaced Al Nussbaum as the No. 1 man in the 100 by coming through in 10.5 seconds. Jack Kelse of Kingston made a strong bid for the 440 event but the Middletown runner had a little extra push at the end. Schild's time was 54.6.

Waltman Wins 880

As expected, Dick Waltman of the Maroon forces, won the 880 despite a challenge from Greene of Middletown in the closing part of the race. Waltman, a comparative newcomer to varsity competition, continued to display good form and looks ready for next season. Waltman's time was 2:07.5.

In the mile jaunt another Kingston representative, Donaldson, took the event but only after a hard struggle all the way. The Maroon galloper plowed on and on in the closing lap and finally lunged over the finish tape in front of Jesick of Monticello. Donaldson's time was 4:46.6.

The first record to fall in favor of Kingston's powerhouse was Bill Ferguson's pole vault of 11 feet, 5 inches. He won the regular competition at 11 feet and then hit 11 feet three and seven-eighths inches to top the old mark. After a few minutes rest he came back for his record vault.

New High Jump Mark

Kniffen of Monticello broke another record by leaping 6 feet, ½ inch in the high jump. He eliminated his opponents at 5 feet, 9 inches. Collins and Nussbaum were the chief runners for Kingston in the relay event which Kingston snapped another record. The old mark of 47.3 held by Monticello, was erased with a new mark of 46.6.

Ranish of Port Jervis, classed as one of the best in the field, won the discus toss of 130 feet and five inches and came off with a new record. The old toss was 121 feet and 2½ inches. Ranish came back to win the shot put with a heave of 43 feet 5¼ inches. It lacked about two feet to make another record.

Track Summaries

Action at Annual DUSO League Track Meet

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, June 2—You can get even money a Texan will win the open golf tourney this week—that is, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl or Lloyd Mangrum—(Nelson is our choice). . . . You also can get 100 to 1 an amateur doesn't win. Only five ever did it—Francis Ouimet, Bobby Jones, Jerry Travers, Chick Evans and Johnny Goodman.

And here are the official prices of Jack Doyle, Broadway's "Wizard of Odds":

Hogan, Demaret, Nelson, Lawson Little and Sam Snead are the favorites at 8-1. . . . Next come Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Henry Picard, Guldahl, Craig Wood, Vic Ghezzi, Paul Runyan, Clayton Heafner, Harold McGowan, Bud Ward and Johnny Revolta at 12-1. . . . All others are from 15-1 to 100-1.

Baseball Chatter

Leo Durocher says he wouldn't trade Pete Reiser for anybody but Bob Feller. . . . Jimmy Fox, benched at his own request, may try wearing glasses at the plate.

Those papers feeling sorry for Wes Ferrell, because of his drop from the majors to managing a Class D team, can forget it. . . . Wes is well-fixed. He took that job only because he wants to stay in baseball. . . . Casey Stengel has made a rule requiring the Braves to sleep at the club's hotel while on the road—no more visiting out with friends or relatives overnight. . . . Secretary Licks hint that night baseball might be curtailed in order to conserve power for defense industries brought this comment from Larry MacPhail: "The majors would survive but the move would completely ruin baseball in the minors."

One-Minute Interview

Jess Neely: "I don't know if my high-scoring back, Bob Brunley, will be drafted. . . . But if anybody gets up and testifies Bob hasn't got any dependents, they sure are mistaken. . . . I know of some coaches out at Rice that can be placed in that dependent class, and no fooling."

People and Things

Douglas G. Hertz, owner of the N. Y. football Yankees, has gone to College Station, Texas, to see Johnny Kimbrough graduate. . . . The Chicago Defender, the big negro weekly, is conducting a survey on whether Joe Louis should retire. . . . The boys who know the Colonial Course at Fort Worth will bet 280 will be broken in the national open. Present record is 281—Guldahl at Denver in 1938. . . . Bill McKechnie, who is as wise as they come, says the principal asset of a good relief pitcher is control. . . . Right now everybody is talking about next month's all-star game. Made your selections, yet? . . . Ed Harris has succeeded Tom Anderson as sports editor of the Knoxville Journal, but Tom's many admirers will be glad to learn he's going to continue on the sports staff.

Help, Help

This corner can use short bits of news and gossip from all over. . . . Also, two and four line jingles. Mail anything you can run across to Eddie Brietz, 50 Rockefeller Plaza, New York.

Gene Mako Back

Kansas City, June 2 (AP)—Gene Mako of Los Angeles, the lost name in tennis, hopes to find himself in the heart of American tournament opening today. . . . The former doubles partner of Don Budge was suspended last year, losing his national ranking. . . . But for this tourney, opening the summer season, he has been seeded No. 6 and tabbed the gent to watch. Frank Parker of Altadena, Calif., defending champ, is seeded No. 2 behind Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, former national champion.

Week-End Sports In Brief Review

By virtue of his 100 straight, his first perfect run in competition. Robert F. Westermeyer, Buffalo, defending champion; Miss Diana Bolling, Greenlawn, Conn., and six others blasted out 99s in the match, part of the two-day meet that ended last night. Miss Bolling's score gave her the women's open title.

Proclamation Is Issued for Mack

Chicago to Honor Veteran Wednesday, June 4

Chicago, May 29—Mayor Edward J. Kelly yesterday issued a special proclamation declaring Wednesday, June 4, "Connie Mack Day" in Chicago and urging all citizens to turn out that evening to help honor the 78-year-old Philadelphia manager at the night game with the White Sox.

The proclamation follows: "Whereas, Connie Mack has been a sterling example to all Americans, young and old alike, by his brilliant leadership, his modesty in glorious triumphs and uncomplaining perseverance in defeat and misfortune, his encouragement to youthful players, his clean sportsmanship and honorable conduct in his every undertaking; and "Whereas, he, in his regular visits to Chicago as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics baseball club since the American League was founded in 1901, unquestionably has left the imprint of his fine character upon the lives of several generations of fans of this city.

"Now, therefore, I do proclaim Wednesday, June 4, 1941, 'Connie Mack Day' in Chicago and I urge our citizens to join the movement to give special recognition to the leadership and character of this beloved 'Grand Old Man' of baseball and, if possible, to participate in the ceremonies in his behalf on the evening of June 4 at Comiskey Park."

CITY SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Thursday evening at Block Park the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union softball team continued on the winning road by beating Woodstock 6 to 1. With the score deadlocked at 0-0 until the first of the sixth when the artists scored one run, the game proved to be one of excitement and tenacity. In the end of the sixth, Gardiner walked and Brauerer bunted safely. With two men on the bases, Jack Carter came through with a double, scoring two runs. Before the inning was over the Garment Workers had scored six runs which proved too much for the Woodstockers. Coke Costello pitching his first game of the season, held the Woodstockers to four hits, while he himself connected for two of the seven hits of the Dressmakers.

White Sox and Dodgers in First Place; Yankees Beat Indians Twice, 2-0 and 5-3

Brooklyn Gets Only Four Hits But Manages to Defeat Cardinals; A's Win Two

By SID FEDER
(The Associated Press)

Miss secretary, when you finish figuring out how the top of both big leagues got so scrambled during the week-end, please take a letter to Mr. James Joseph Dykes, care of the Chicago White Sox, first place, American Baseball League:

"Dear Jimmy: We see by the papers you're right up to the head of the parade today. Nice going, pal. But you better give those old legs of yours a shot in the arm and come back to work. That is, if you want that American League pennant, you'd better come off that retired list and try to put a cork in your infield.

Lead Is Slim
"You split with the Senators yesterday, blowing the first, 3-2, and taking the nightcap, 4-3, in 11 innings. Except for some extra-special stuff by those Fanny Dams in your infield, you might have won both ends to really take a toe-hold on first place, instead of barely getting a grip on a one-percentage-point edge.

"Just look back over the recent goings-on. Sure, you've won 15 of 21, but if it weren't with mirrors then how was it? Your boys made four errors yesterday in the first game and blew it—and the fumbles were directly responsible. They made three the day before and had to go all out to win. They made two last Wednesday and were whipped, and three the day before that and dropped another. "Now, Jimmy, it doesn't look like the Indians, who got kicked around twice yesterday by the Yankees, are much interested in that pennant any more. And the Yanks have been about as consistent as your bowling score. (By the way, have you rolled 160 lately?)

"Why, even your old boss, Connie Mack, has his Athletics so hopped up they've won 13 out of 16, including two from the befuddled Browns yesterday, and are leading the second division. You know that rarefied air is good for them. So it looks like anybody's 'bingo' in your league this year, and you can do it as well as the next guy. So get those gam of yours to hold you up, park that cigar on the edge of the dugout roof, and give it a whirl. After all, you can't do any worse than what's going on now. Anyway come back, Jimmy, all is forgiven."

Dodgers-Cards Tied
Having disposed of that business, we can turn our undivided attention to the celebration over on the banks of the Gowanus in Brooklyn. The Dodgers nipped the collapsing Cardinals, 3-2, yesterday to climb into a first-place tie with St. Louis in the National League. In turning in this win, the bewildering Brooklynians were held to four hits, but a single by Cookie Lavagetto in the third inning sent two runs across to hand the Cards their third straight setback and boost the Dodgers' winning string to nine in a row.

The tight finishes with which the White Sox and Dodgers bounced into the top spots were the general rule all up and down the line on this strictly "dog-fight Sunday afternoon" in both leagues. Although the White Sox split left them one point in front of the Indians in the American League percentage standings, the Tribe actually remained a half-game on top in the won-lost records, despite the 2-0 and 5-3 thumpings they absorbed from the Yankees to run their losing streak to four straight. Rufus the Red Ruffing, going the route for the first time since May 14, tossed an eight-hit coat of whitewash in the opener.

The Johnny Sturm and George Selkirk put on one of those old-fashioned Yankee homer parties in the eighth inning to clinch the nightcap.
Red Sox in a Lull
The Boston Red Sox moved into fourth place and dropped Detroit all the way to sixth by trouncing the Tigers twice. Jimmy Foss's two-run homer went a long way toward winning the opener, 7-6. A run in the ninth decided the fore-all nightcap, 6-5. The amazing Athletics tumbled in 5-2 and 5-3 victories over the Browns behind steady hurling by Bump Hadley and Phil Marchildon.
The 400th homer of Mel Ott's 17-year career led the New York Giants to a 3-2 win over the Cincinnati Reds in the first game of their double bill, but Junior Thompson's eight-hit flinging gave the Rhinelanders the after-piece by an identical score.
The Chicago Cubs bombarded the Phillies, 9-5 in their opener, and then took the nightcap, 1-0, as Jake Mooney won out over Lefty Lee Grissom in a heart-breaker pitching duel. This boosted the Cubs into fourth place over the Reds. The Pirates and Braves were rained out.

Technical Backout
East Rockaway, N. Y. (AP) — Don Voorhees, the orchestra leader, hurried to a dog show where he was to be a judge. The policeman was half-way through his "where's the fire?" routine when he noticed a windshield wiper saying "Judge." "Oh," he said, "I didn't recognize you, your honor. Imagine me stopping you! No hard feelings, I hope?" "None at all," said Voorhees, proceeding to the dog show.

Prior to 1900, the soybean was planted only in U. S. gardens as a curious plant from the Orient, but now, 40 years later, the manufacture of soybean oil, cake, and meal according to the Census is a $44,000,000 a year industry before the manufactured value of products from these soybean materials is taken into account.

But Craig Wood, 39, Thinks He's Ready To Cop Title

AP Feature Service

Fort Worth—At what age does a golfer have to admit that his years lessen his chances of winning the National Open championship?

That's what Craig Wood is wondering these days. Wood at 39 — going on 40 — thinks he can win the Open tournament starting at Colonial Club here June 5.

Age, Wood says, doesn't mean anything. In his opinion all a golfer needs to keep winning tournaments is distance and incentive.

And big blond Craig says he has both of them, plus the valuable asset of experience.

But records show Wood's age will be against him. Only one player of more than 39 has won the title — Edward Ray of England was 43 when he came home first in 1920. But Ray and Willie MacFarlane, who was 36 when he beat Bob Jones in the 1925 playoff, are the only winners beyond 35.

Actually, there have been only 10 winners in the 44 tournaments who were over 30. These were Joe Lloyd, 1897; Lawrence Auchtermole, 1902; Alex Smith, 1910; Ray, 1920; Jim Barnes, 1921; Cyril Walker, 1924; MacFarlane, 1925; Tommy Armour, 1927; Olin Dutra, 1934; and Tony Manero, 1936.

Gene Sarazen was 38 when he tied Lawson Little and lost in last year's playoff.

Wood believes his age will be of value in one respect: His years of competition will prevent him from becoming panicky under the terrific strain of the final day's play.

Many players with good early scores blow up in the drive down the stretch. Craig says he doesn't worry about the guys ahead of him, he just plays his best and waits for them to crack.

But some young fellows haven't acquired nerves and won't crack. Johnny McDermott probably didn't know what nerves were when he won the crown in 1911 at 19, the youngest champ. He repeated the next year. Francis Ouimet was barely 20 when he became the first amateur to win in 1913, beating the Britons, Harry Vardon and Ray, in a playoff. Sarazen was 20 when he won in 1922. Jones, in 1923, and Walter Hagen, in 1914, were 22 when they won their first championships. The average age of the Open champions is in the middle twenties.

Wood has played perhaps the best golf of his career in the past two years. He shot an all-time low for a 72-hole medal play tournament over a championship-length course in 1940 when he won the Metropolitan Open with 74. He recently won the Augusta Masters.

Wood tied for the 1939 Open and lost in a playoff with Byron Nelson. Last year he was fourth. He has tied for first—and lost in the playoff—for two other major championships, the Professional Golfers' and the British Open.

Although only one man older than he is now has ever won, Craig isn't letting the age angle bother him a bit. He thinks he's a good bet to win.

Faced with an acute shortage, Generalissimo Franco's dietary planners hit on what seemed the fairest arrangement. They decided that people who could afford to buy more of other foods should have less bread and the poorer people more.

A result Spaniards in the "high" income brackets—that is those who earn $50 or more a month—are entitled to only 80 grams a day. Eighty grams is less than three ounces.

Those who earn between $30 and $50 get 120 grams approximately four and a fifth ounces. The rest are allowed slightly more than six ounces.

There is such a shortage of meat and it comes at such relatively high prices that the working classes seldom have it on their tables.

All this sums up to a general under-nourishment which has

Fred Perry Beats Dick Skeen for Pro Tennis Title

British Veteran Regains Crown at Chicago in Four Sets of 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, 6-3

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—Fred Perry, one-time mainstay of the British Davis Cup team and three-time holder of the U. S. national amateur tennis title, is the world's professional champion for the second time in four years.

Perry regained the top spot in the money division yesterday with a 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, 6-3 victory over the veteran Dick Skeen of Hollywood, known better as a teacher than as a player.

The singles victory netted Perry $400 in cash, and he added another $250 to his winnings when he paired with Budgie to win the doubles championship for the second straight year.

Budgie, eliminated in the singles early in the meet, and Perry ran through Lester Stoefer and Keith Gledhill, Los Angeles team, in decisive fashion, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Thirteen Persons Are Hurt During Holiday Traffic

Motorcycle Rider Among Injured; Accidents Occur in Abnormal Week-End Travel

Thirteen persons were reported injured in motor vehicle accidents in Kingston on Saturday and Sunday, when holiday traffic through the city was exceedingly heavy, owing to the Memorial Day holiday.

Southbound traffic through Kingston reached its peak during Sunday afternoon and evening. All that afternoon and evening there was a steady stream of cars rolling down the Wurts street hill and over the Rondout Creek Bridge. Traffic was also heavy over the East Chester street by-pass. Saturday afternoon five persons riding in two automobiles were injured, but it is thought not seriously, when the cars operated by Mrs. Alfred F. Doyle of 7 Burgevin street, and John S. Alberts of Lucas avenue extension, collided on Lucas avenue, near Forsyth Park.

According to the report filed this morning by Mr. Alberts, two persons riding in his car were injured. They were Catherine Alberts, 41, cut on the left knee and arm, and Delbert Alberts, 6, suffered a bump on the head and slight cut around the mouth.

The three persons injured in the Doyle car were not identified by the police as Mrs. Doyle had not yet filed a report of the accident this morning with the police department. It is said, however, that Mrs. Doyle suffered from shock, and another woman, said to be the maid in the Doyle household, and a child in the Doyle car were also injured.

Cycle Rider Hurt

Edward Kren of 85 Prospect street suffered an injured right leg Sunday morning when his motorcycle struck the curb at the intersection of Washington avenue and North Front street. The injury was treated at the Kingston Hospital. According to the police report, Mr. Kren said he was turning from Washington avenue into North Front street, when an unidentified car forced his machine into the curb, and he was thrown off. The auto, however, did not strike the motorcycle.

Three Hurt in Crash

Saturday afternoon cars operated by Peter J. Hoffman of Elmhurst, L. I., and Edward Esposito of 168 North street, this city, collided at the intersection of Prospect and Franklin streets.

Mr. Hoffman suffered an injury to his right hand, while Mr. Esposito suffered a sprained wrist, and Lorraine Pizzella, 12, of Tillson, suffered a slight concussion.

Woman Injured

Mrs. Marian J. Conklin of Albany was injured about the head when the car operated by her husband, Edmund C. Conklin, was in collision with a car operated by William Wacht of New York city, on Sunday evening on East Chester street. When the two cars came together Mrs. Conklin was thrown against the windshield.

Truck Operator Is Held After Woodstock Crash

The car of Charles D. Stenard of 106 Market street, Albany, which was parked off the concrete pavement in front of the residence of Dr. Hans Cohn at Woodstock Sunday was sideswiped by a truck driven by Morris Molloy of 1060 Broadway, New York city, and driven by Seeman Radiator of 1075 Grand Concourse, New York.

The left side of the Chevrolet was damaged and the right side of the truck was also damaged. In the car of Stenard was a woman and an infant. The operator of the truck was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne and George Reynolds and arraigned before Justice Wallace Shultis, where a request for a hearing was made. Bail in the sum of $10 was posted for a hearing at 5 o'clock June 14.

Sacoman Will Open Real Estate Offices

Joseph F. Sacoman on Tuesday will open a real estate brokerage office at 240 Fair street. Mr. Sacoman has been engaged in the selling of real estate in this city for several years, and is widely known not only in Kingston, but throughout Ulster county.

Mr. Sacoman's many friends extend best wishes for his success.

British military experts also declared Hitler probably would exert heavy new pressure on Turkey—either to join the Axis or permit the passage of Nazi armored divisions into the middle east for an attack on Iraq and the Suez Canal.

Air Ministry Speaks

In an apparent attempt to soften the blow of Crete's fall, the London air ministry news service released an account of the RAF's counter-offensive against Germany, declaring:

"The German people are having the war brought home to them in Hamburg, Kiel and Wilhelmshaven. There is no concealing the latest damage, and from these centers of devastation rumors run their course throughout Germany. Reports from within Germany describe Hamburg as a tragic picture. There is scarcely any district in the city—the second largest in Germany—which has not suffered."

Meanwhile the neutral Eire government protested to Berlin and demanded reparations for Saturday's bombing assault on Dublin, the capital, in which the toll included 30 known dead and 31 others probably killed. An official announcement said the bombs were "of German origin."

Survivors of the lost battle for Crete reached Egypt with the declaration that it was not Nazi paratroopers that beat them but the clear-cut German control of the air over the island.

Pope Pius XII, marking the 50th anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's famous social encyclical, "perum novarum," enunciated principles on the fundamentals of life which he said should share in "that new order which the world expects and hopes" would emerge from the war.

Emphasizing the need for safeguarding the rights of individuals the Holy Father in his world-wide broadcast cautioned against too extensive state interference in the rights of individuals and families and upheld man's right to freedom in his "physical, spiritual, religious and moral movements."

Former Local Resident Has Portrait Displayed

Edmund F. Heard, a former resident of this city, and now vice-president and works manager of the Newport News shipyard at Newport News, Va., has had his portrait placed on display in the Mariners' museum there, according to a lengthy story in the Daily Press, Newport News of Sunday, May 25.

The portrait was done by Mrs. William Blanchard Rand, recognized as an outstanding portrait painter.

Mr. Heard is the son of the late Thomas Harris Heard and Emma Van Gaasbeek Heard, and while a boy attended and graduated from old Kingston Academy. He began his career with the shipyard as a fitter's helper. He was born in 1890 and is a graduate of Union College and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He has been a resident of Newport News for the past 27 years, going there from Boston. He wedded the former Miss Mary Sadie Neale of Richmond, Va. He is a member of the James River Country Club, the Virginia Peninsula Association of Commerce, the Newport News port, Propeller Club, Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, the American Society of Naval Engineers and the Upsilon fraternity.

Mr. Heard is a trustee of the Mariners' museum, and also a director of the North Carolina Shipbuilding Co. of Wilmington, N. C., subsidiary of the Newport News shipyard; director of the Furmanite Corp., trustee of the James River Country Club, and director of the PAC.

The Newport News shipyard now employs 16,300 men and has over 400 million dollars worth of work.

Pays $10 for Speeding

James Pappas of 28-15 34th street, Long Island City, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne and George Reynolds Sunday on route 28 on a charge of speeding 70 miles an hour. Taken before Justice Ray Lyke of the town of Ulster a $10 fine was imposed and paid.

Machine Gun Is Need of Army

Seek Arm to Revolutionize Warfare; Competitive Tests in Fall.

WASHINGTON. — Some bicycle mechanic in Weepaw may share history's page with Ericsson, Gatling and Maxim if he can build a light air-cooled machine gun for the army.

It cannot be just another model or type or design. It must revolutionize warfare.

Military tacticians do not expect wizardry suddenly to turn the tide of battle with a fabulous instrument. More likely, they say, some obscure citizen may hit upon whatever "new weapon" wins this war and it may be a simple evolution of rapid-fire armament now well known.

Hold Tests in Fall.

Maj. Gen. C. M. Wesson, chief of ordnance, will supervise competitive tests by inventors and designers at the Aberdeen proving grounds in October. Specifications call for a "superior type of light machine-gun" capable of firing "250 rounds of belted cartridges without heating" and embracing "all the desirable characteristics" of the 16-pound automatic clip rifle.

No nation now possesses such concentrated and mobile fire-power for individual combat. If the army gets it, this deadliest of all small arms will be standardized for infantry and cavalry.

General Wesson may accept something less ambitious if it is good. However, the gun in mind would have almost the range and accuracy of the shoulder rifle and fire 250 bullets in a single burst. Without equal counter-fire or defense an enemy would be almost helpless.

Inventors Are Busy.

Although the new National Inventors' council receives almost 300 "war inventions" daily and the ordnance department and commercial arms manufacturers constantly have worked on improvements since the last World war, the department says no one has succeeded in lightening the water-cooled machine gun or designing an air-cooled weapon that would not overheat, jam and misfire.

The 46-pound water-cooled "innovation" was General Pershing's pride in the Meuse-Argonne. Now it is antiquated by the 22-pound air-cooled gun, which in turn is outmoded by the British "Bren" and German guns.

The American air-cooled gun is not very effective beyond 100 yards, compared with 600 for the shoulder rifle; it burns out soon unless expertly fired in short bursts, and primarily is a defense rather than an attack weapon.

Makes New Approach to Safety in War Lighting

MIDDLETOWN, CONN.—An Austrian refugee, Gerald J. Holton, now a senior at Wesleyan university, has constructed a street-lighting device for air-raid "blackouts" that he believes is superior to those now in use in England.

Holton said the present lights in Britain give a visibility comparable to starlight, which he contended was not sufficient for safety. He cited the fact that 1,000 pedestrians a month were being killed in England by automobiles.

Holder of an engineering certificate from Oxford, Holton explained his blackout device makes streets appear dark from above while having enough light to guide street traffic and permit rapid filling of air-raid shelters.

Holton was born in Berlin of Viennese parents and reared in Vienna. He went to England in 1938 and went through Oxford in two years. He left for America the day Italy entered the war.

It Will Be No Circus if Glenn Gets Into the Army

DENVER.—If the guns don't roar for Glenn B. Robbins, the lions will. His parents in Portage, Wis., wrote him that his draft number was about to be called. He decided to enlist.

"What should happen," he relates, "but the next day I get a letter from some attorney out in California saying my grandmother (Mrs. Hattie Robbins) had died and left me the sole heir to the Robbins three-ring circus."

"There's a good man in charge of the circus in California now and he will continue to run things until I finish my three-year enlistment."

Robbins, 27 years old, departed for Moffet Field, Calif., to become an air corps soldier.

Black Willow of Utah Goes Into Wooden Leg

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Utah has never had much reputation as a lumbering state, but it produces one type tree which is now much in demand.

That is the black willow—and it virtually supports the wooden leg industry. According to experts, the Utah variety of black willow is prized for the manufacture of artificial limbs because of low pitch content.

WINS GRAND PRIZE

BETTY JANE TORPY

Proud and smiling was this fourteen year old art student of the Lancaster High School when she has informed that her poster, entitled "The Perfect Gift—an Apple," won for her the Grand Prize of $15 in the recently held High School Poster Contests throughout New York and New England, sponsored by the New York and New England Apple Institute, a growers' non-profit promotional organization.

Betty's poster was adjudged the best poster of all submitted by art students attending Northeastern high schools and competed against several thousand others entered by students in 75 schools for cash prizes. The Apple Institute's Poster Committee and Judges unanimously agreed that the winning poster presented in only two applied colors an artistic, pleasing presentation of a well expressed useful message. Other points credited were: A simple balanced design, delightful human interest, striking color contrasts, clear and perfect lettering, fine workmanship, and compliance with the rules of the contest.

Miss Mabel Elizabeth Bates, Betty's art teacher at the Lancaster High School, was likewise delighted to learn of her pupil's success. To continue her studies to the end that she may eventually become an art teacher or a designer is Betty's fondest hope.

Two Are Injured As Machine Fails To Negotiate Turn

Ruth Townsley of 149 East 33rd street, New York city, and her husband were injured Saturday afternoon when the car operated by Mrs. Townsley was unable to negotiate the turn from route 28 to the Woodstock road at West Hurley and struck a tree. In making the turn she lost control of the car which crashed into a tree in front of the Mowell gas station. Deputy Ray Winne investigated the accident.

Mrs. Townsley was treated by Dr. Hans Cohn of Woodstock and then brought to the office of Dr. Cranston in this city where several stitches were taken to close a wound on the eye. In addition she suffered bruises of the leg and cuts. Her husband suffered cuts on the leg, bruises, a cut on the arm and hand.

Deputy Sheriff Winne placed the driver under arrest on a charge of not having an operator's license and taken before Justice Tiller she was fined $5. A charge of operating the car without the registration certificate was suspended when the registration was produced Sunday.

Firemen of Ulster Pay Annual Visit To Hudson Home

Although the weather was inclement on Sunday approximately 500 volunteer firemen of Ulster county and their families motored to the Firemen's Home in Hudson where Ulster County Day was celebrated with an appropriate program. The event was sponsored by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Secretary Fred H. Davis of the New York State Volunteer Firemen's Association welcomed the guests.

An interesting entertainment was presented by the Ulster volunteers. Several additional acts were also on the program, including Tex, Doc and Chuck, representing the Centerville fire department; Mary Lou and her Buckaroos, the Highland fire department, and Andy Davis and Bob Anderson of Station WKNY.

Pope Broadcasts His Peace Views

Use of Material Goods, Labor, Family Stressed in Sunday Address

Vatican City, June 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, outlining his views on how the "fundamental values" of social and economic life should share in "that new order which the world expects and hopes" will emerge from the war, emphasized safeguards of the rights of the individual.

In a Sunday radio broadcast commemorating the 50th anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's social encyclical, "Rerum Novarum," the pontiff said he wished to give "some further directive moral principles" on the three fundamental values: The use of material goods, labor and the family.

He cautioned against too extensive state interference in the rights and duties of individuals and families and upheld man's right to freedom in his "physical, spiritual, religious and moral movements."

Material Goods

On the use of material goods, the Holy Father said:

"Undoubtedly the natural order deriving from God demands a reciprocal commerce of goods by inter-change and gift as well as the functioning of the state as a control over both these institutions. x x x

"To safeguard the inviolable sphere of the rights of the human person and to facilitate the fulfillment of his duties should be the essential office of every public authority. x x x

The care of such a common good does not imply a power so extensive over the members of the community that in virtue of it the public authority can x x x decide on the beginning or the ending of human life, determine at will the manner of his physical, spiritual, religious and moral movements in opposition to the personal duties or rights of man and to this end abolish or deprive of efficacy his natural rights to material goods. x x x

Labor

On labor: "x x x the duty and the right to organize the labor of the people belongs, above all, to the people immediately interested: The employers and the workers.

"x x x every legitimate and beneficial interference of the state in the field of labor should be such as to safeguard and respect its personal character both in the broad outlines and as far as possible in what concerns its execution; and this will happen if the norms of the state do not abolish or render impossible the exercise of other rights and duties equally; such as the right to give God his due worship; the right to marry; the right of husband and wife, of father and mother to lead a married life; the right to reasonable liberty in the choice of a state of life and the fulfillment of a true vocation x x x"

Family

On the family: "A so-called civil progress would x x x be unnatural which—either through the excessive burdens imposed or through exaggerated direct interferences—were to render private property void of significance, practically taking from the family and its head the freedom to follow the scope set by God for the perfection of family life."

Pope Pius also suggested the opening of "habitable regions and vital spaces now abandoned to wild natural vegetation and well-suited to be cultivated by man" as a means of contributing both "to the increased welfare of man and the progress of human culture."

Our Growing Population

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health:

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Perry of 495 Delaware avenue, a son, Ronald Gene, in the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. William Corbett of 355 Broadway, a daughter, Kathryn Helen, in the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Otto of Brooklyn, a son, Jeffrey Richard, in the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Davis, of Olive Bridge, a daughter, Mary Edith, in the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Daley of 69 West Union street, a son, Thomas, Jr., in the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Max H. Tobey of 302 Hasbrouck avenue, a son, Leonard Carl, in the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Cavano of 128 Broadway, a son, Francis Joseph, in the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Vollmer of 53 Elmendorf street, a daughter, Arlene Rae, in the Benedictine Hospital.

The Census Bureau says the total number of accidental deaths in the 21-year period, 1919-1939, was 1,800,226. The year 1936 led with 110,052 accidental deaths. In 1939, the total was 92,623.

Dog at Woodstock Found to Be Rabid

Woodstock, June 2.—Residents of this township were warned today to keep strict observance of the quarantine on dogs after it was learned by health authorities that another case of rabies has been discovered.

Word was received from Albany recently by George Reynolds, local resident, that a dog owned by him apparently had died of the disease.

Mr. Reynolds reported that the dog had been acting strangely prior to its death and when it died he had the head sent to Albany for a rabies test.

Bishop Manning Visits City Parishes

Freeman Photos

Bishop Manning Officiates at Two Special Services

tor, the Rev. William A. Grier conducted the short impressive dedication services and spoke briefly congratulating the congregation on its splendid work and cooperation shown in rebuilding the hall.

Parish Hall Is Rebuilt

The old hall had been in use for years by the various church and local organizations for their activities, including basketball games, plays, and recitals. Plans were started immediately to restore the building and the rooms and main hall were completely finished for yesterday's services.

The walls of the hall are brick and the front wing is now one story. There is a basement to be used for storage purposes. Improvements over the old building have been made, notably that of lowering the floor of the assembly hall to the level of the entrance. The kitchen has been moved from the basement to the first floor and in addition to two swinging doors has a butterfly hatch to facilitate serving of meals. A new cloak room has been constructed at the entrance to the hall and the meeting rooms at the entrance of the building have been enlarged. The congregation did not feel the absolute necessity of a stage, so none has been included.

All of the walls are lined with knotty pine wainscoting to the height of approximately five feet above which they are paneled as are the ceilings. The lighting fixtures are semi-indirect and together with the light cream color of the upper walls and ceiling provide the rooms with an abundance of light.

Donations Are Made

Generous donations both in materials and money from organizations and individuals throughout the city have kept the church from debt. The electric fixtures were given by Miss Emily Burnett of Sleightsburg in memory of her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Burnett Smethurst of Cincinnati. The painting was donated by Mrs. Charles Irwin and Robert Groves is providing an automatic coal heater.

Prior to the rededication services, Bishop Manning administered the rite of confirmation to the class of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Cogswell, Edward Cogswell, George Decker, and the Misses Jovette Menefee, Anne Adams, Mary Barnes and Geraldine Long.

Joyce Long Proctor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stuart Proctor was baptized at this service.

At St. John's Church the rite of confirmation was conferred upon the following candidates: Betty Ann Battenfeld, Virginia Rose Blanscham, Joan Bucholtz, Jean Allison Deming, Joan La Vergne Gill, Edna May Khedrian, Bernice Ann McIlreth, June Cathryn Rider, Dorothy Ann Shelley, Charlotte Smith, Jerusha Glover Wagenfohr, Beth Margaret Win-

To Register Nurses

Mrs. Ethel M. Fuller, R. N., president of district No. 2 of the New York State Nurses' Association, has just received an additional supply of questionnaires for registered nurses in connection with the Nursing Inventory for National Defense. Those who are registered nurses actively nursing or inactive and did not receive a questionnaire or for any other reason deferred answering the blank and would like another chance, are asked to write Mrs. Ethel M. Fuller, 4 Wilson street, Newburgh. She will supply another questionnaire.

Bombing during fighting on the Siwa Oasis in Libya revealed interesting archaeological discoveries.

U. S. ENVOY TO BRITAIN RETURNS

John G. Winant, former governor of New Hampshire and present U. S. ambassador to England, tips his hat to the crowd as he comes down the gangplank on his arrival in New York aboard the Yankee Clipper. He is scheduled to visit the President in the White House on June 3.

Blanks Available For Local Hobby And Craft Show

Entry blanks for the hobby and craft show, which will be held at the Y. M. C. A. on June 10 and 11 may be obtained at the Hilton Travel Service, Y. M. C. A., N. Y. A., Sam Bernstein & Co., Tongue's News Shop in Saugerties, Leon Carey's News Shop in Woodstock and the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen or they will be mailed direct to any applicant upon application to Mr. Goodfellow at the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Hilton at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Nelson Snyder at the Kingston city clerk's office or from Sam Bernstein, Wall street, Kingston.

Any person who desires to enter the show and is unable to call for entry blanks, may make application for entry blank to any of the above places from which blanks will be returned by mail.

This year the Y. M. C. A. is taking insurance against loss by fire or theft and any owner of a valuable collection will be able to enter the collection with the knowledge that it is covered by insurance during the display. Since the insurance is to be written on all exhibits it is necessary for every entry to supply a complete list of his or her exhibit.

It should be remembered that there is no entry fee and all persons interested in any hobby or craft is invited to make a display.

Several active hobbies are being arranged for. There will be a majonette show by pupils of the Saugerties High School, pottery moulding and rug weaving.

Forum Is Slated By Junior League

Discussion to Be Held at Local City Hall

A panel forum, presented by the Junior League of Kingston, Inc., in co-operation with the local Defense Council, will be held at the city hall at 8 p. m., Friday, June 13. This forum will be held so that the citizens of Kingston may gain a better knowledge of the steps which are being taken towards local defense. Each chairman will speak on his phase of the local defense problem.

Since the seating capacity of the city hall is limited, it has been necessary to issue invitations. Over 150 organizations, churches, and factories have been invited to send representatives.

June Is Ushered in With Chilly Weather

The month of June was ushered in on Sunday with rain and a temperature of 59 degrees. The day continued cold and chill and many householders started a fire in the heating plants to take the chill from the house. The highest temperature recorded that day was 72 degrees in the afternoon.

According to the records in the city engineer's office there was a total precipitation Sunday of .23 of an inch.

During the month of May the total precipitation was 1.30 inches of rain. The warmest day recorded that month was the 22nd when the official city thermometer recorded a high of 94 degrees. On the 28th there was a recording of 93 degrees and on the 21st a recording of 92 degrees. These were the warmest days of the past month.
